

Process Optimization Prototyping

Lean on Alithya to Find Answers

Most companies have three to five processes that are critical to how their businesses are run; if they can optimize those processes, it can drive exponential growth in sales, profitability or productivity. Alithya's Process Optimization Prototyping service is designed to help you fill gaps so you can stop wasting time and energy with workarounds. Chances are, your current Microsoft suite has a solution or one can be built using Microsoft Power Apps, a suite of apps, services, connectors and data platform that allows everyone – even non-developers – to rapidly build custom apps to meet business needs.

Mapping a Solution

In this rapid-turnaround process, Alithya's experts work with your team to map your process that you want to improve, as well as the measurable outcome you want to achieve. The recommendation may be refining the existing process, training your team to use your existing tools better, or customizing or setting up your existing solution to mitigate the challenge. We can also help you identify and integrate the best third-party solution, if required. Alithya is your trusted advisor in determining the next best steps.
