Nuclear facilities are currently faced with a number of industry-wide challenges. There is visible pressure to be increasingly cost-effective without sacrificing safety or reliability. Traditionally, in-house solutions or manual methods are used to aggregate, analyze and disseminate performance-related reports. However, given the current industry climate, it is unsustainable for internal staff to continue to support and maintain these solutions while meeting stakeholder expectations for additional data insight and forecasting tools, etc.

Outage Insights – For Cost Effective Preparation and Execution

CASSI™ Outage Work Management Reporting Software supports the continuous improvement of Pre-Outage, Preparation, and Execution centered activities which are essential to a successful Nuclear Outage Program. The software is designed to allow Outage Stakeholders to drive accountability for the work assigned, and to consistently and accurately track costs, resources, and work status against milestone-driven performance goals.
